Category: Lecture/Speaker

Sub Category: The Wallace Center

Description: RIT Libraries' Faculty Scholars Series is proud to welcome:

Vincent F.A. Golphin
Assistant Professor of Creative Writing and Literary Cultural Studies
Department of English, RIT's College of Liberal Arts

for his presentation of

“Story”

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 23, 2008

3:00 – 5:00 pm

The Idea Factory in Wallace Library (Bldg. 5, 1st floor)

“Story” is the title and substance of a presentation of the academic pursuits of Vincent F. A. Golphin. Personal stories chart the basic elements of human lives and societies, and in that sense, are a glue that holds disparate parts into a structure. Stories are what Professor Golphin deals with in various forms in the classroom, speeches and publications as a poet, fiction writer, essayist, commentator, memoirist, cultural analyst and ethnographer. As the next featured Faculty Scholar, he will discuss the role of stories in society and culture and share how they are used in a recent memoir, poetry collection and ethnographic study.

This event is free and open to the public. Interpreters will be provided.
